

A World Divided

Our Last Night

Taught to be afraid of me, so you don't understand
I'm hanging on the edge but you won't reach for my hand
If we came face to face you would see no difference between you and me

We are the same

But we let the hate radiate out of us like the sun
Watch it burn through our veins Divided by the colors

Split by our beliefs

Forced against each other

Nothing's as it seems

But between white walls

We could forget it all

The fear would fade, we could start to change

A world divided and afraid

The rumors and lies, pull us apart

Leaving us on separate sides

On display like a work of art

These lies are here to keep us in the dark Divided by the colors

Split by our beliefs

Forced against each other

Nothing's as it seems

But between white walls

We could forget it all

The fear would fade, we could start to change

A world divided and afraid We need to break the cycle of hate!

We need to break the cycle of hate!

Divided by the colors

Split by our beliefs

Forced against each other

Nothing's as it seems

But between white walls

We could forget it all

The fear would fade, we could start to change

A world divided and afraid
