Never, Ever

Liz Anderson

Sitting in my room, staring at the wall
I can't believe it's happening
Once so wonderful now
Life's a twisted kind of reality, a fantasy
Don't know where to beginSaw your love for me
Vanish in a single moment of stupidity
Nightmare this may be but, it is not a dream, ooh
I want to scream, a broken heart still bleedsNever ever talk, never ever smile
Knowing that my life won't be the same
Never ever touch, never ever feel
I will never hear you call my name againIn my dreams I see, see you come to me
A memory of times of old
Waking up I realise, hell's as cool as ice
And the touch of sin did get me in
Nothing burns like the coldNever ever talk, never ever smile
Knowing that my life won't be the same
Never ever touch, never ever feel
I will never hear you call my name againAs we sin, so do we suffer
I've fallen from grace
Want to turn back time and make it undoneNever ever talk, never ever smile
Knowing that my life won't be the same
Never ever touch, never ever feel
I will never hear you call my nameNever ever talk, never ever smile
All I see a future full of fear
Never ever touch, never ever feel
I can never whisper in your ear, I'm sorry
