

Jack and Jill

Los Yoyitos

She wore that dress like it was a Saturday
Pretty as a summer rose picked in the morning
And he held her hand like it was a mystery
One he couldn't quite believe, was walking with himThey were high up on a hill
Something to say and daylight to kill
Time slipped away the way that it willRound and around, dancing 'round the question boat
Flip a coin and watch it go down into the wishing well
Two steps, sunset, there goes another day
Another chance to give away the secrets to keep to themselvesThey were high up on a hill
Something to say and daylight to kill
Time slipped away the way that it willDarkness falls without a sound
They come tumbling down
Tumbling after
Tumbling afterShe wore that dress like it was a Saturday
Pretty as a summer rose picked in the morning
And he held her hand like it was a mystery
One he couldn't quite believe, was walking with himThey were high up on a hill
Something to say and daylight to kill
Time ticked away the way that it will
