

The Victim

Dead Poetic

To me, you were just dead weight
A diluted filter blurring the color away
From what this used to be
Or, or what it could have beenBut nothing's changed
I still see you as a toxin
I still see you as the same
I'll let you stand on your own again
While you're playing the victimTo me, you were just the same
Like all of the others
Accusing the leader of inflicting all the pain
That you've been feeling, feeling
But I'd wait to find any tears of mine
I tried to let you come undoneBut nothing's changed
I still see you as a toxin
I still see you as the sameI'll let you stand on your own again
While you're playing the victim
I'll let you stand on your own, your ownFind a new way in, and take them all way
If I'm the villain, well, then take me all away
If I had the blade
I'd cut the strings down from your limbs
And let you get awayI'll let you stand on your own again
While you're playing the victim
I'll let you stand on your own, your own
