

Flamboyant

Pet Shop Boys

You live in a world of excess
Where more is more and less is much less
A day without fame is a waste
And a question of need is a question of taste You're so flamboyant the way you look
It gets you so much attention
Your sole employment is getting more
You want police intervention You're so flamboyant the way you live
You really care that they stare
And the press deployment is always there
It's what you do for enjoyment You live in a time of decay
When the worth of a man
Is how much he can play
Every day All the public must know where you are, what you do
'Cause your life is a show and You're so flamboyant the way you live
And it's not even demeaning
You're so flamboyant it's like a drug
You use to give your life meaning You're so flamboyant the way you look
It gets you so much attention
Your sole employment is getting more
You want police intervention Every actor needs an audience
Every action is a performance
It all takes courage
You know it Just crossing the street well, it's almost heroic
You're so flamboyant There you are at another preview
In a pose the artist and you
To look so loud, may be considered tacky
Collectors wear black clothes by Issey Miyake You're so flamboyant the way you look
It gets you so much attention
Your sole employment is getting more
You want police intervention You're so flamboyant the way you live
You really care that they stare
And the press deployment is always there
It's what you do for enjoyment You're so flamboyant
You're so flamboyant
