Sweet Jane

Garrett Kato

Oh, sweet Jane,
Living in the rapture.
All the feelings after are gonna fade away.

Smokey days hanging outside in the pouring rain,
Feeling like the home where you once stayed has washed away.

And, oh, your heart's been acting like it don't wanna be working right.
Now, you've tried everything just to feel something.

And all my thoughts are still with you,
But you said that I'll explain to you When you got nothing left, you got nothing left to loose.

Your father said
someday he will be remade
into a spirt that lives inside of your mind.

So, you denied
The reasons we all live and die,
Said that the river runs straight into the ocean.

And, oh, your heart's been acting like it don't wanna be working right.
Now, you've tired everything just to feel something.

And all my thoughts are still with you,
But you said that I'll explain to you.
When you got nothing left, you got nothing left to loose.
