

Dangerous

David Wilcox

I'm dangerously romantic
When the leaves are comin' down
When the air was clear this mornin'
And the frost still on the ground When I wore those cozy woolen gloves
To bicycle into town
Well of course I'd want to fall in love
And finally settle down But I'm dangerous, be careful with me
'Cause I could fall for you much too easily
I'm usually cool, I like to be free
But I'm dangerous right now, be careful with me I'm hopelessly sentimental
When the winter comes a storm
When the snow is on the mailbox
And the sidewalks all are gone But the fire in the wood stove
Can keep me so nice and warm
That of course I'd want to live with you
And share this simple home I guess I'm dangerous, so be careful with me
'Cause I could fall for you much too easily
I'm usually cool, I like to be free
But I'm dangerous right now, be careful with me It must just be the season
When the spring is in the air
And I'm actin' like a child again
Frankly I don't care But I found these purple flowers
To weave into your hair
And of course I'd want to marry you
And travel off somewhere I guess I'm dangerous, so be careful with me
'Cause I could fall for you much too easily
I'm usually cool, I like to be free
But I'm dangerous right now, be careful with me
Be careful with me
