

Kind of Perfect

Armor for Sleep

Can I just be something
Somewhere in your room that you won't notice?
Maybe I'll be paper or books thrown on your floor
Move me when you want to I'll live where you put me in your VCR
If I become a cassette
Or on top of your computer
If that's where I would fit then so be it But things can't be perfect all the time that I know
Sometimes we just have to let some things go I will not say one word, I'll just hang around
I won't annoy you at all
When you move out I'll stay until I'm thrown away
But then it won't matter Things can't be perfect all the time that I know
Sometimes we just have to let some things go Because things can't be perfect all the time that I know
Sometimes we just have to let some things go I promise to stop now, to stop now
I promise to stop now, to stop now But things can't be perfect all the time that I know
Sometimes we just have to let some things go Things can't be perfect all the time that I know
Sometimes we just have to let some things go Letting go is my life, I'll be on my way
