False Alarm

Pompeii

I'm trying to put this thing to bed I've drugged it in its sleep There isn't many memories I'm comfortable to keep This ball keeps rolling on It's heading for the streets Keep expecting you to send for me The invitation never comes Each time I turn around There's nothing there at all So tell me why I feel like I'm up against a wall But maybe it's a false alarm And every answer sounds the same Just colors bleeding into one It hasn't got a name Maybe I can't see Maybe it's just me And now the curtain's coming up The audience is still I'm struggling to cater for The space I'm meant to fill And distance doesn't care No distance doesn't care Each time I turn around There's nothing there at all So tell me why I feel like I'm up against a wall But maybe it's a false alarm And every answer sounds the same Just colors bleeding into one It hasn't got a name Maybe I can't see Maybe it's just me I'm trying to put this thing to bed I drugged it in its sleep Remember what you said Are you comfortable to keep it?
