Witherscape

for many years he was wrong and the logic fades away his faith is tested everyday the sickness is not what it seems but a gift he can't explain is it that he's the chosen one? as darkness visits again there's a burning deep within hiding away to follow her searching for all the answers the process has begun destiny calling him wayhiding in the soul for her to prey she will steal them all and cast the world away they will see the day when hell will come alive as the fire burns, the demon will betray with the power of a lonely god one can hear for lands abroad sight to see tomorrow moving object, only with thought one with strength beyond compare there is evil inside desire she could ease the pain he's lost within her wicked cunning and this is where he leaves his faith he examines the strength and the power but he couldn't grab the reign the deepest fear of what stands before him never, never be the same hiding in the soul for her to prey she will steal them all and cast the world away
hiding in the soul for her to prey
she will steal them all and cast the world away
they will see the day when hell will come alive
as the fire burns, the demon will betray
