

Miles N' Miles

Stephen Jerzak

Somewhere in the sky
Somewhere in the sky
And I'll never find it without you
Somewhere in the sky
I know the sun is hiding
And I'll never find it without you
Hey, hey sunshine
You're so golden, let me feel you
It's worth it too, in a while
So I can look at your smile
Because it shines for miles n' miles
I fell asleep
But I didn't dream
I thought the day would come sooner than later
But I'm still here in the same old place
There's a West coast beach scene in my head
And I want to fly away from this Midwestern state
And be there instead
Somewhere in the sky
I know the sun is hiding
And I'll never find it without you
Hey, hey sunshine
You're so golden, let me feel you
It's worth it too, in a while
So I can look at your smile
Because it shines for miles n' miles (miles n' miles)
I stayed awake, to find my place
I dreamed the day will come sooner than later

Where you and I will be face to face
There's a West coast beach scene in my head
And I want to fly away from this Midwestern state
And be there instead
Somewhere in the sky
I know the sun is hiding
And I'll never find it without you
Hey, hey sunshine
You're so golden, let me feel you
It's worth it too, in a while

So I can look at your smile
Because it shines for miles n' miles
(miles n' miles)
Somewhere in the sky
I know the sun is hiding
And I'll never find it without you
Hey, hey sunshine
You're so golden, let me feel you
It's worth it too, in a while
So I can look at your smile
Because it shines for miles n' miles
Somewhere in the sky
I know the sun is hiding
And I'll never find it without you (let me feel you)
Hey, hey sunshine
You're so golden, let me feel you
It's worth it too, in a while
So I can look at your smile, your smile, your smile
Shines for a million miles
