

Wrong Is Wrong (Facing Changes Version)

Hangnail

Did you ever sneak outside, when you weren't supposed to
Did you do those things you said you probably never would do
We've all told white lies and we've not been found out
Does it make a difference when your conscience's giving you doubt When do we draw the line?
To say, what's wrong is wrong and nothing stands between
When did they take the line away?
What's wrong is wrong and nothing stands between The things we often say, that make it seem okay
When the possibilities are right there staring you down
No matter who you are or what you've done so far
It's your responsibility our choice makes us who we are When do we draw the line?
To say, what's wrong is wrong and nothing stands between
When did they take the line away?
What's wrong is wrong and nothing stands between
