More Than Worthless

Drowning Pool

I'm down to one last cigarette
And perhaps two steps left
Please God, don't make me feel anymore
Anymore
What did you save for me?
What did you pay for?
I can't understand this mess
I am more than this, I am more than worthless
I can't understand this mess
I am more than this, I am more than worthless
I want more, I need more
I am worth more, more than worthless
More than worthless
More than worthless
Can't feel the empty glass in my hand
Or taste the bitter wine upon my lips
Please God, don't make me love anymore
Anymore, no more, no
What did you save for me?
Yeah, what did you pay for?
I can't understand this mess
I am more than this, I am more than worthless
I can't understand this mess
I am more than this, I am more than worthless
I want more, I need more
I am worth more, more than worthless
Well, I want you to know, well, I need you to know
That I'll be right here, right here
Well, I want you to feel that everything is real
What I feel is still real
I can't understand this mess
I am more than this, I am more than worthless
I can't understand this mess
I am more than this, I am more than less worthless
I want more, I need more
I am worth more, more than worthless
I'm down to one last cigarette
And perhaps no time left
