

There's No Such Thing As Accidental Infidelity

You Me at Six

I've got a question
Did you think that we would ever believe you?
And I've been out of rejection
The line you walk is getting so thin, so thin
Your green eyes are potent
And last night, I know who you were with
And you're a snake in the grass
And always that has been
Go back home now
And go back to sleep
And we'll say
Go back with someone who wants you more than me
Just one more question
Why do you throw your words around town like
They answer nobody's questions?
All ears, your chase comes out at night
Oh, the whistles cry
We're supposed to drop like flies
Go back home now
And go back to sleep
And we'll say
Go back with someone who wants you more than me
Was it something I said
Something I did
That made you destroy all we built?
And it was something you said
Something you did
That made me think that you were real
Go back home now
And go back to sleep
And we'll say
Go back with someone who wants you more than
Who wants you more than me
Go back home now
Go back to sleep
And go back with anything
'Cause I know you'll think of me
Go back home now
Go back to sleep
Go back with anything
'Cause I know you'll think of me
(Go back home now, go back to sleep and we'll say...)

Songwriters

Franceschi, Josh / Helyer, Max / Barnes, Matt / Miller, Chris / Flint, Dan
Published by

Lyrics © Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnyrics.com/>