

Electric Storm

Delta Goodrem

Fighting for no reward
Cold in the rain, I'm tossing and turning
Your words ever burning my heart Love's an electric storm of pleasure and pain
Where thunder and lightening
Are crashing and striking us down Two people shipwrecked stranded alone
Praying for dry land to save our souls
Hurricane season just knocked us down
Emotional suicides running the ground Fighting for no reward
Cold in the rain, I'm tossing and turning
Your words ever burning my heart Love's an electric storm of pleasure and pain
Where thunder and lightening
Are crashing and striking us I won't give up never, never
I won't be struck by the weather
Hold on when the wind's so strong
Tell me, how can we find our way home
In love's electric storm? Feels like our last chance to get out alive
Will we survive this treacherous night?
Predators waiting, circling around
Sky full of fireworks burn without sound Fighting for no reward
Cold in the rain, I'm tossing and turning
Your words ever burning my heart Love's an electric storm of pleasure and pain
Where thunder and lightening
Are crashing and striking us I won't give up never, never
I won't be struck by the weather
Hold on when the wind's so strong
Tell me, how can we find our way home
In love's electric storm? Have we never been stronger?
Have we never been tighter?
But we're close to the wire again
Have we never been safer? Fighting for no reward
Cold in the rain, I'm tossing and turning
Your words ever burning my heart Love's an electric storm of pleasure and pain
Where thunder and lightening
Are crashing and striking us down I won't give up never, never
I won't be struck by the weather
Hold on when the wind's so strong Tell me, how can we find our way home
Tell me, how can we find our way home
In love's electric storm?
