

Delinquent Song

Voodoo Glow Skulls

That was just for you now who's telling who?
What ever step you take do you feel yourself falling?
Grasping for that handrail that's leading you nowhere
Parental guidance gone well, it's just another delinquent song
How many times do you have to be told
When you're crossing someone else's line
Just because you don't see things the same as the next guy
It ain't your job to try I think we're gonna say it's apathetic
What are you striving for is it simple satisfaction
If you make the wrong decision
You might hurt someone else We've all got equal opportunities
We're all standing on this common ground
And if we try to walk the same path together
Sooner or later someone will fall astray Go, go, go, go
Go, go, go, go How many times do you have to be told
When you're crossing someone else's line
Just because you don't see things the same as the next guy
It ain't your job to try How many times do you have to be told
When you're crossing someone else's line
Just because you don't see things the same as the next guy
It ain't your job to try Go, go, go, go
Go, go, go, go
Go, go, go, go

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>