Ben

Kurban

Ask me a question, I'll tell you all I know
You ask for my advice and then you take a different road
You traveled oh so far left everyone who cared far behind
Left us all behind
How could I have ever saved you?
The only thing I'd ever done was cared
How could I have ever blamed you?
You never promised that you would always be there
I'll never know what you were thinking on that night
You saw him on the road and took the angel for a ride
He gave you confidence as you yearned for your own
Praise, then took your soul away
How could I have ever saved you?
The only thing I'd ever done was cared
How could I have ever blamed you?
You never promised that you would always be there
Take a different road, take a chance to know
There's so much more than winning
Take a different way, wait another day
Now it seems that it's too late and
How could I have ever saved you?
The only thing I'd ever done was cared
How could I have ever blamed you?
You never promised that you would always be there

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/