Last Day

Ari Herstand

If you knew this was your last day what would you do
If you knew this was our last kiss how would your lips moveIf I should end up at the end of this day sealing that letter we send when theres no more to say Id lick the stamp, leave no return address so when it finds its way there theres no room for regretI dont know why I cant provide the post script inside
I cant decide the sound of my sigh the moment I dieIf you knew this was your last day what would you do
If you knew this was our last kiss how would your lips moveIn church they must say just let go and pray
When we ascend to the gates theres nothing more we can say
I cant disagree
What weve done we accept
Every choice is a leap
Every decision a stepI dont know why I cant provide the post script inside
I cant decide the sound of my sigh releasing all sin and letting fate winIf you knew this was your last day what would you do
If you knew this was our last kiss how would your lips move
