

Playing With Fire

Candy Hearts

I want to unravel you like the thread on my jeans tug and pull til it's loose and I have torn the seam I ruin everything, you should probably avoid me or give me a reason why every side of the bed feels like the wrong one in the morning
tell me that happiness was sent to the wrong address and if we wait a while it's still coming
to me
The rain on my fire escape; the whirl of my first car the sound of the rumble strip when we have drifted just too far goes off in my head like a cell phone alarm and everything's too loud So give me a reason why every side of the bed
feels like the wrong one in the morning
tell me that happiness was sent to the wrong address
and if we wait a while it's still coming
to me
Cause I'm playing with fire and I can't think straight I'd do anything to not feel this way

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>