

Will You Dance, Charlie Boy

Richard Thompson

Will you dance, Charlie boy, will you dance?
Will you dance, Charlie boy, will you dance?
 Though the sequins are worn
 And tattered and torn
And the seat is right out of your pants Will you dance, Charlie boy, will you dance?
 Will you dance, Charlie boy, will you dance?
 One more time, Charlie boy,
 With your old pride and joy,
Will you dance, Charlie boy, will you dance? O you're still pretty fast on your feet
 Yes you're still pretty fast on your feet
 Though the years have gone by
 And the tank's running dry
You're still pretty fast on your feet Will you dance to the tune that they play
 Will you dance to the tune that they play
 Will you play the old game
 Of fortune and fame
And grin as you sign your life away Is there life in the old doggie yet
 Is there life in the old doggie yet
 Will you stand on your mark
 On your hind legs and bark
Like somebody's dear little pet Will you dance, Charlie boy, will you dance?
 Will you dance, Charlie boy, will you dance?
 Will you be a good whore
 For the people once more
Will you dance, Charlie boy, will you dance?
