

Welcome to the Weekend

The Parltones

Screeching brakes, another fatality
Inquisitive eyes peer from window sills
Hijacking, house-breaking, pointless brutality
To wear a happy face we all swallow pills

Welcome to the weekend

Screaming tires on a road to nowhere
Traveled for years, never got anywhere
Magnetic excuses kept us from getting there
The truth is we're too scared, we're just too scared

Welcome to the weekend

The people in this town all dress the same
Cloned individuals, hot and adorable
Pitter, patter, pitter, patter, rain on the radio
The hiss lets us know everything's dissolvable
Effervescent, Adolescent, fizzy little dizzy head

Welcome to the weekend

Contaminated minds fueled by supplements
Our mind's made numb by modern instruments
Today's new thing tomorrow's redundancy
The most loved god is a god of currency
Forced to believe autocratic democracy
Politician don't you ruin our

Welcome to the weekend
