

I Guess I'll Take You Back

The Vandals

The reason that I'm calling you is to let you know I thought it through and after much debate in fact, I guess I'll take you back. I've heard from friends you've moved around and maybe you have settled down so when you get this message please call me back. It's been a rough few years for me, I moved back with my family, but I'll still take you back. And maybe it's too late to call or maybe it's the alcohol, but I think I want you back. I guess I'll take you back. I realize it's been a while, you might be married or have a child. So give me your address and I can help you pack. I need you now worse than before, I'll offer you the chance once more. 'cause everything considered, I guess I'll take you back. I know that things had ended bad, but let's stop living in the past. I think I want you back. And let's forget the things we said, we'll start again with clearer heads. I guess I want you back.
I guess I'll take you back. Please don't make me ask again, my calling card is nearly spent. And life without you has been so bad. I don't require apologies-just think of what I'm offering.
I think I want you back. I guess I'll take you back.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>