

On the Radio

Lakefield

I can hear the sound of you jetting
I can see the sun as it's setting
But I know that I'm never letting go of you

I'd be lying if I said I'm betting
That you'd be with me at the wedding
Still I know that I'm never getting over you

You're a song on the radio / singing me back to sleep, and
You're talk on the telephone / telling me tales of a thousand things
You're a song on the radio / singing me back to sleep, and
You're stuck on the stereo / making me wake from a thousand dreams

I can hardly believe that it's ending
We're both having a hard time accepting
Still I know that I'll be attempting without you

I'll be thinking of you every morning
~till the sun goes down in the evening
I'll keep holding on to the memory left of you

You're a song on the radio / singing me back to sleep, and
You're talk on the telephone / telling me tales of a thousand things
You're a song on the radio / singing me back to sleep, and
You're voice on the video / making me wake from a thousand dreams

I believed in us at the beginning
And you know that I'm unrelenting
But I feel that everything's breaking into two

Is it mad to think that you're getting
All the letters that I keep on sending
It's a sign that I'm not forgetting me and you

You're a song on the radio / singing me back to sleep, and
You're talk on the telephone / telling me tales of a thousand things
You're a song on the radio / singing me back to sleep, and You're long gone but you never know / you could be there, still thinking of me
