I Want You

Moloko

I want you, though you dare to deny it

I'm always reminded of you, oh

And the more you forbid me

The more I need you to give meMorning comes upon us to impose another day

Though I might try to force myself to sleep

Why should I face up to another waking day?

If there's a chance you'll come to me in dreamsThe world keeps right on turning anyway

While I stay home and watch those shadows play

Innocence is lost into the dark

If I was dynamite,

Would you provide a spark? Oh!I want you, though you dare to deny it

I am always reminded of you

And the more you forbid me

The more I need you to give meI don't know what to do,

though you dare to deny it

I'm always reminded of you

And the more you forbid me

The more I need you to give meIf only you could see my life turning inside out

A heart that keeps attacking me, always in my mouth,

If my skin were glass, my love, you would see a heart that keeps on beating only in the hope that you'll return to meI don't know what to do,

though you dare to deny it

I'm always reminded of you

And the more you forbid me

The more I need you to give meI want you, though you dare to deny it

I am always reminded of you

And the more you forbid me

The more I need you to give meI don't know what to do, though you dare to deny it

I'm always reminded of you

And the more you forbid me

The more I need you to give meI want you, I am always reminded of you

I want you, always reminded, I'm always reminded, I'm always reminded, I'm always reminded of you.

Lyrics provided by

https://damnlyrics.com/