Surfer Blood

These weeks cast shadows on me
A few disguises maybe
Now lines begin to blur beneath my gaze
One dream within another, it's all a dream to meAnd I don't know anymore
Will you tell me what you're looking for
You've magnified a thousand times
But the piece is missing by designA shadow fell on me today
It paralyzed my tongue, eclipsed my brainAnd I don't know anymore
Will you tell me what you're looking for
You've dug for us a thousand holes
To harness what you can't controlYou've got to let me in Yeah you've got to let me know
If we can never let it go
How could I ever say hello?If I had known what I found out today
I would have washed my hands and walked away
For now I'm in the lion's den
Denied of the fresh air again, oh oh
