My Collapsing Frame

Commander Venus

Would you do that if it really meant
They would see you
And would be convinced that you love me
And you didn't care who knew it?Please believe me, when I say it's true
I have never felt as close to you
Or anyone as I do right now
And I'm begging you, please don't leave yetAnd this moment's glass in a fragile state
I've convinced myself that it won't crack or break
Like a heart in the winter, when the air is cold
And your words, the same, I know them, I know themI am broken, I am wounded
Watch me as my fragile frame collapses
Collapses on me, on me
But it's not your fault
You never meant to hurt me, you hurt meAnd when it's 5:00 a.m.
And you're too tired to ever sleep
Well there's no rest for the lonely
I hope I die in my sleepThere's never been such hopelessness or devotion
Or devotion or devotion
What's devotion?
