

The Guitar Song (Feat. Bill Anderson)

Jamey Johnson

I'm just a guitar in the pawn shop on the corner
And I'm waiting for someone to play me now and then
My strings are kinda rusty and I'm a little dusty
Oh but you'd be to if you've been where I've been
I did some shows with Haggard back in 1967
And I'm just dying for someone to play me back home I'm just a guitar in the pawn shop on the corner
Hey come on by and listen to my song I've seen at least a million of those tiny smoke bar rooms
And I've help to heal some heartaches
And I've helped to sell some beer
And the last one that held me
Just couldn't wait to sell me
And for twenty eight dollars and left me hanging here
But I dream about the spotlight
And the roaring of the people
And I wonder if I'm ever gonna hear 'em sing along I'm just a guitar in the pawn shop on the corner
Hey come on by and listen to my song I've got a lot of memories
And a song or two left in me
And some day someone'll pick me up
And play me back home I'm just a guitar in the pawn shop on the corner
Hey come on by and listen to my song Won't ya come back by and listen to my song
