Divine

Lillian Axe

Did you shiver as the steel ran through you All eyes focused on your ride their words became your cyanide could you ever believe in a secret That would make you whole again
As you bathe in the fallout from on high
How does it feel to be divine Did you leave us so they'd start to wonder such a primal intensity Disappointment for the world to see Did you ever believe it would end here
As a ghost ripping through their fears have you come back to bid your last goodbye
How does it feel to be divine
why do you kneel You're so divine now and then we have the pain to remember just how ugly we've all become do we have to destroy just to pass the time
