Saviour of the Real

Tony Iommi

Let me take you to the western gate
I got a letter, gonna meet your fate
Here comes the rider, on the eye of the sky
He's gonna break you down and let you dieI wanna know before you fade to black
You better listen, 'cause you don't know Jack
I see you wear a silver rosary
Now do you need a little company'And you're barely alive
And you'll never learn
And you're living outside
Outside yourselfI hear you scream across the universe
Mother nature's little sacred curse
You have been painted with a twisted smile
I see it's gonna have to take a whileAnd you're barely alive
And you'll never learn
And you're living outside
Outside yourselfYou have lived in madness
You have been divided
Won't you let it be
You can't explain just how you feelTake away the sadness
If you have decided
And I will make you see
Cause I'm the savior of the realI wanna know before you fade to black
You better listen, 'cause you don't know Jack
I see you wear a silver rosary
Now do you need a little company'And you're barely alive
And you'll never learn
And you're living outside
Outside yourselfYou have lived in madness
You have been divided
Won't you let it be
You can't explain just how you feelTake away the sadness
If you have decided
And I will make you see
Cause I'm the savior of the realSavior, savior of the real
I'm the savior
The savior of the realYou have lived in madness
You have been divided
Won't you let it be
You can't explain just how you feelTake away my sadness

If you have decided
And I will make you see
Cause I'm the savior of the real