Open Door

q. stone

Never had the luck to see that face before
At most I've only had a fleeting chance
But now it looks as though
Youre just not fleeting anymoreNow it has turned into quite some romance
And I am distant no longer more
Since you have come to pass
Right through, right through that open doorPeople come and people go
In the end they're all the same
The quest for someone special is all so clear
Trying to find identity, trying to find a nameI've seem to found myself since you've here
I've fought oppression, I've paid the price
But here with you it's twice as nice
So I'll change my ways, Ill start today
I've got to change my lifeMy heart goes out to all of you
The many who have tried to try and grasp
What of that they may dreamI'll tell you right now
All of you in your venture to find
It'll happen so fast
You won't have time to breathe
