

Safe Haven

Indecision

 this time it's all over again destroyed again and let down again built up again to be torn down again
 you became a memory awkward in your presence that state of mind separation from devotion I have no regrets except for everything if I offered eternity you'd still expect more run and run you'll never run far enough I know where you go when you're afraid
