Dissension

Incendiary

And you might think it's possible
For me to think the same way that you do
I've figured out there's nothing I can do
To change my life and nothing ever willAnd you might think it's reasonable
For me to just accept the way it is
I've heard it said, there's nothing I can do
To change this world, I wish it wasn't trueThere are those who say the world is ending every day
But I want the chance, I've been waiting here
I try to hide this pain and fear
So give me a chance and I believe it's rationalTo never want to see things the way they are
I've heard it said that we all carry something to believe
And some can let it go
