

My Land (live)

Sonata Arctica

My own land has closed its gates on me
All alone in world, it's scaring me I am here to prove you wrong
I'm accused of something I live for In my dreamland, there's one who understands
A friendly soul, trusting life in your hands Yes, I gave it all I can Now it's invaded by a stranger Keep in mind what you have heard today
You might find that you are not so brave
Are you man enough, carrying the load all alone
When others have your own My old land is but a pile of sand Cold and bare but something still is there Yes, I gave it all i can
Now it's invaded by a stranger Keep in mind what you have heard today
You might find that you are not so brave
Are you man enough, carrying the load all alone
When others have your own I am a brave patriot, you are my land, you have my soul, you have all I had Now I am here, and I want it all back In my dreams, I climb the hills I see and let a gentle breeze lead me to plains I once have seen and Clear blue sky, I swim in lakes I find I build a house right there that you can't take.. never take away I am here to claim my land you can't keep me away, forever Keep in mind what you have heard today
You might find that you're not so brave
Are you man enough, carrying the load all alone
When others have your own Are you man enough, carrying the load all alone
When others have your own
