Into The City

Teenage Fanclub

Headlights turned on and set to stun
Waiting with everyone in the starless night
Steep climb right into the mists of (??)
Down through the cloud again (on?) the northern (side?)
Over there is a brand new river, the slow continuous (??)
By the open moors and empty fields, the serpentine twisting right
Live wires and endless streets, the crowded valley's alight
Breaking through the warm electric glow that stretches deep out of sight
As we drive again to the city

The city secrets open up before my eyes
The colored street is beautiful, there's butterflies
It feels so alive
Feels so alive
Street lights, I've been away too long
Missing you strolling on, every day and night
For the sweet life, joy in my heart is (strong?)
Feel it's where I belong, every day and night
Street lights...
