

Hide and Seek

At Long Last

I didnt think I would write this song, until I heard Asher Roth come on, and even though it hurt so bad, I typed this song from my feelings to my notepad God knows that youve got a couple already, but this is yours from me so get ready its heavy Just remember I didnt want to write this song, but this is my remembrance of you
So longIt started with scissors, thrown across the room at me, luckily I blocked them so I could watch you laugh
so gently
You and your friends would through quarters, right square in my face
You would complain when I did not hug you, and oddly enough this ended with I need some spaceSo long, farewell, It was a good time coming but a long way home
When you said that you fell for me, I thought it was the beginning of a memory
But I guess I spoke to soon, even if the best days of my life were in that June Please wont you stay for me?
I guess for now a friend is all I can beYour best talent was playing hard to get, and when I didnt play along that is something I regret Boys would flirt with you like crazy, like your Carmen Electra
You know now that I dont blame them, I was your varied spectrum
A floaty-like thing that was based in your heart, you were what kept me from falling apart
Now Im falling apart
