

From Dublin to Moscow

The O'Reillys & The Paddyhats

In the year of sixteen-ten, there were five young man
Were longing for the far
One had an idea, he proposed Steve without fear
Let's go as far as we can

By boat and on our feet, we won't stop untill we meet
A land where we are free
They packed their goods and chattles, and some bottles too and began the journy into
The blow

From Dublin to Moscow we had just one fear
Oh, we frighted that we went run out of beer
From Moscow to Hong Kong we named our fear
Because we realised we won't have enough beer

As we walk through many lands, we should comprehend
Oh folks, we're all but free
We crossed the seven seas, we searched gigantic trees
A surge still wanna entone

From Dublin to Moscow we had just one fear
Oh, we frighted that we went run out of beer
From Moscow to Hong Kong we named our fear
Because we realised we won't have enough beer

[Solo]

From Dublin to Moscow we had just one fear
Oh, we frighted that we went run out of beer
From Moscow to Hong Kong we named our fear
Because we realised we won't have enough beer

From Dublin to Moscow we had just one fear
Oh, we frighted that we went run out of beer
From Moscow to Hong Kong
From Hong Kong to New York
From New York to Madrid
From Madrid to Berlin

From Berlin to London
From London to Dublin again

we named our fear
Because we realised we won't have enough beer
Because we realised we won't have enough beer
Because we realized we won't be free
