Landmarks

This is nothing new since I turned 22
I'm still writing about
How I'm a waste of space
Who keeps letting himself down

I can't follow in the footsteps of
Those who walked before us
Cause I've got
My own head upon my shoulders
(That's the way that it should be)
I must have been
Asleep for days
Because I think I'm missing something
Everything I love has been forgotten or completely disappeared
It's just as I feared
It's just as I feared

Pills don't keep my thoughts at bay
I'm sick to death of everything Everyone I know says
"It's just a phase"
But I'm not getting better
I'm not getting better

Just when I thought I knew myself, my mind it turns against me
And erases all my memories
Replacing them with doubt
And there's a knot
Where my heart should be
It tightens up my chest
This anxiety
Is haunting me, oh god
It never ends
It's just as I feared
It's just as I feared

Pills don't keep my thoughts at bay I'm sick to death of everything Everyone I know says
"It's just a phase"
(God it never ends, never ends)
God it never ends, never ends
(God it never ends, never ends)

I've had enough
I'm over this
I am spent

I lost my soul
My passion and heart
The only three things
That set me apart
With you as my witness
I will depart
From this neurotic existence
And go back to the start

Pills don't keep my thoughts at bay I'm sick to death of everything Everyone I know says "It's just a phase"
Pills don't keep my thoughts at bay I'm sick to death of everything Everyone I know says "It's just a phase"
But I'm not getting better
