Ghosts

Laura Marling

He walked down a busy street Staring solely at his feet Clutching pictures of past lovers at his side Stood at the table where she sat And removed his hat In respect of her presence Presents her with the pictures and says These are just ghosts that broke My heart before I met you These are just ghosts that broke My heart before I met you Opened up his little heart Unlocked the lock that kept it dark And read a written warning Saying I?m still mourning Over ghosts, over ghosts Over ghosts, over ghosts that broke My heart before I met you Lover, please do not fall to your knees it?s not Like I believe in everlasting love He went crazy at nineteen Said he?d lost all his self esteem And couldn?t understand why he was crying Cry, crying, crying He would stare at empty chairs Think of the ghosts that once sat there The ghosts who broke his heart All the ghosts that broke my heart The ghosts that broke his heart All the ghosts that broke my heart The ghosts, the ghosts, the ghosts The ghosts, the ghosts, the ghosts The ghosts that broke my heart before I met you Lover, please do not fall to your knees It?s not like I believe in everlasting love He says I?m so lost, not at all well Do as though there is nothing left to be Well, it turned out I?d been following him And he?d been following me

Do as though after it was over
We were just two lovers crying
On each other's shoulders
And I said, lover please do not fall to your knees
It?s not like I believe in everlasting love
Lover, please do not fall to your knees
It?s not like I believe in everlasting love

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/