

Moonchild

M83

They say I made the moon, everything was in the dark
No memories at all, just a tiny freezing wind in my back
As I was sitting there singing a song they had never heard before
Suddenly, a voice told me keep on singing little boy
And raise your arms in the big black sky
Raise your arms the highest you can, so the whole universe will glow
My first vision was a bush growing down the river
And I couldn't stop crying, something was missing
I realized I was in love with a voice, I called it, again and again
But all I heard was the echo in the light

Lyrics provided by <https://damnllyrics.com/>