

The Last Duet (with Lily Tomlin) [Remastered]

Barry Manilow

Mmm You creep into my heart
And make my heart burn
You sneak into my mind
And make my head ache There are things I long to tell you
You're much too blonde
You snore
Look it's time to face the music Bye bye, don't slam the door
And I don't want, I don't want
I don't want, I don't want
No, I don't want your flowers anymore This is the last duet
Last chance you're gonna get
No more ha-harmony
For you and me This is the final song
And when the music' through
This is the last duet
I'll ever do with you You're not the one that I want
Ohh ohh ohh tood-le-oo, honey
Don't go breakin' my back
Don't call me, I'll call you Back together, reunited
Should feel so good, they say
So I hope there's no hard feelings
Don't go away mad, just go away 'Cause enough is enough
Is enough, is enough
Too much too little too late
Tonight, tonight, with you I'm bored again This is the last duet
Last chance you're gonna get
No more ha harmony
For you and me This is the final song
And when the music's through
This is the last duet
I'll ever do with you This is the last duet
Last chance you're gonna get
No more ha harmony
For you and me This is the final song
And when the music' through
This is the last duet
I'll ever do, I'll ever do
I'll never never never never never do

With you

Songwriters

MANILOW, BARRY / SUSSMAN, BRUCE H. / FELDMAN, JACK A. Published by Lyrics Â© Universal Music Publishing Group

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>