

Hallow

Cloud Boat

i hold the pen, slip right under and spend all day inside i get angry when i write letters to myself i drink the rain and call for thunder but can't survive the storm i get jealous so i write letters to myself i lift my head and look beyond her i'm not turning round again i'm not stupid so i know the letters go unread so i take myself to a quiet corner and work all through the night i'll build a model of you i feel nothing when i hear you talk 'cause i know that you don't read them now that all i have is time i'll build a model of you i feel nothing when i see you smile and you're coming around again maybe in a thousand letters time i'll have a model of you
