

A Place to Call Your Own

Tall Tall Trees

A place to call your own
The things you'd never known until you're out there and alone
You're digging in the dirt
And laying the foundation where you build upon a life
And soon you'll take a wife
Together you will circle around the never growing light
When everything is right It's nice to see you smile
You know I haven't seen you this excited in a while
And just as it should be
When everything it flow from the river to the sea
It's just as it should be
How far you've come
Oh I can't believe it
It seems like yesterday we were in the backyard playing in the grass
I try to catch you but you move too fast
You move too fast
I never tried to catch you though A place to call your own
With many things to do before a house becomes a home
The story of our lives
With many years of laughter lasting deep into the night
And everything is right
How far you've come
Oh I can't believe it
It seems like yesterday we were in the backyard playing in the grass
I try to catch you but you move too fast
You move too fast
I never will forget you though
You know where you can find me
I think you made the perfect plan
I just want to be there
A place to call your own
