Somewhere In Between

Hawthorne Heights

You're an angel, I'm a devil
But we'll meet somewhere in between
Heaven, hell or the bedroom
I'll take you away from everythingYou're a dream and I'm a nightmare
But we'll meet somewhere in between
The sheets, the covers and the headboard
I'll be a king if you are a queenI just fell in love for the first time
Watch as I pick myself up off the ground
In the dark I'm so far from the spotlight
Can you see me now?I turn my back and walk away, away from the pain
Screaming loud, drowning out by the sound of the rain
Listen up, I've had enough of all this waiting
I need you more right now than I ever didYou're the minutes, I'm the hours
But we'll meet somewhere in between
Never now or too soon
I say we meet at a quarter to threeI just fell in love for the first time
Watch as I pick myself up off the ground
In the dark I'm so far from the spotlight
Can you see me now?I turn my back and walk away, away from the pain
Screaming loud, drowning out by the sound of the rain
Listen up, I've had enough of all this waiting
I need you more right now than I ever didI turn my back and walk away, away from the pain
Screaming loud, drowning out by the sound of the rain
Listen up, I've had enough of all this waiting
I need you more right now than I ever didI turn my back and walk away, away from the pain
Screaming loud, drowning out by the sound of the rain
Listen up, I've had enough of all this waiting
I need you more right now than I ever didI turn my back and walk away, away from the pain
Screaming loud, drowning out by the sound of the rain
Listen up, I've had enough of all this waiting
I need you more right now than I ever did
