Ain't Nobody

Atmosphere

Spoke up, hold up,
I'm on that grown up stuff
I be the butt of your joke,
'cause I can't hold my cup
You jumped in that tub,
You're trying to soak it up
You chose to go and get stuck,
I'm not your gold rush

Yeah I showed up,
Was hopin' to post up
Every few moments you move more closer
I noticed the doughnuts,
I'm open to no such Like it's my obligation to show love, you know what Yeah you know what

Yeah I came to party,
But I don't want to party with you
You know I ain't nobody
Yeah I came to party,
But I don't want to party with you

Uh huh, that's when it became apparent
That you're accustomed to the ways of embarrassment
Uh huh, I want no place in your experiment
But if I walk away you'll blame it on my arrogance
Let's make this clear, I'm not your therapist
There is no interest in hearing about your carelessness
I'd rather disappear like a spirit just Lift into the air,
Carry me away from where this is I'm not hearing it

Yeah I came to party,
But I don't want to party with you
You know I ain't nobody
Yeah I came to party,
But I don't want to party with you

Lookin' around for a cause to get lost to

The drop off too deep to try to cross through
There's no crown for the fisherman that caught you
So this the sound of me whistling the wrong tune
It's gotta be obvious, I'm not who you should talk to You probably oughta just walk, no one'll stop you
Fly to the washroom, try to fix your costume
Yeah I'm with somebody and I promise that she's not you Thought you knew

Yeah I came to party,
But I don't want to party with you
You know I ain't nobody
Yeah I came to party,
But I don't want to party with you

Now you go away, far away
Now you go away, far away

Lyrics powered by lyrics.tancode.com written by DAVIS, MOSES ANTHONY/MARSDEN, STEVEN(LENKY)/DUNBAR, SLY
Lyrics Â© EMI Music Publishing, Universal Music Publishing Group

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/