

The Oak Tree

Emily Hearn

Kickin' the dust up, I'm wearin' out my shoes
I can't make my mind up, I've got too much to lose I'm old enough to leave home, but way too young to know what I should do I'm treadin' water, I'm tryna keep my head above the ground So would you come with me up to the Oak tree
time will stop for us again look back remember when When we just 18 under the Oak tree safer than we'd ever been hold onto innocence Where has the time gone, I'm feelin' old and gray Tryna breathe revival into my broken ways
I'm old enough to leave home,
but way too young to carry all the blame I'm treadin' water, I'm tryna keep my head above the ground So would you come with me up to the Oak tree
time will stop for us again
look back remember when When we were just 18 under the Oak tree
safer than we'd ever been hold on to innocence We were young, oh we were young And we had time How I hate, the feelin' that time, keeps slipping away The child in me is kickin', don't let a moment pass
Cuz I can't bear to witness my parents age so fast They're way too young to fly home, and I can't stand to watch the hourglass I'm treadin' water, I'm tryna keep my head above the ground
I'm treadin' water, I'm tryna keep time from runnin' out So would you come with me up to the Oak tree
time will stop for us again
look back remember when When we were just 18 under the Oak tree
safer than we'd ever been hold onto innocence We were young, oh we were young, and we had time Oh to be young, oh to be young, and to have time
