

Architect

A Telemetry

brought here by some chance here we go
we don't have much choice in the matter

deep within the heart of existence can you face the overwhelming in a neon haze

the mind we have quickly develops put the garbage in get it out a negative force goes with another no directive stalls the engine

you're the architect
the one who has to build
can you find - find the will pinned down by life caught in a cycle

we don't have real answers to guide us take it all by the seat of your pants can you know what's in your cards with blind opinions another tells me what they know is right making sense out of senselessness is the norm not worth telling no elective silence festers

encompass smaller details picture some kind of cause here interact shape those senses constructed strong to lean on
