Barbies cradle

If I leave in silence
Would you notice me
Would you hate my absence Would you drown in your miseryIf i leave with a reason would you argue to your grave would you hold on to a promise like a master keeps a slaveI throw the question to see if you feel the same because there is nothing i wouldn't sacrifice for youI am too tired to cry don't you leave me to die I have become at peace as you set me freeOn my last confession the final breath i take will you look me in the eyes and say my namethe only consolation is you remember me that way with the butterflies and the happy times we madeI throw the question to see if you feel the same
to replace you
