Son

Peter Katz

Oh now son I see it in your eyes
That look of wonder I once held in mine
That heart so full of hope you're trying to hold
Staring at your face that's growing oldOh, all you need is right here in this room
We're all here to go somewhere with you
So get up there and do what you doNow I don't mean to make light of your trials
Son we all get down once in a while
I know you feel it hard with each up and down
I know you've broken more than you can countOh, all you need is right here in this room
We're all here to go somewhere with you
So get up there and do what you doDamn them with their smart-ass cut down lines
They love to bring you down just to kill the time
When the only thing you need to own up to
Is if you believe in what you do
If you believe in what you do
Do you believe in what you do?Oh, all you need is right here in this room
We're all here to go somewhere with you
So get up there and do what you do
Yeah you get up there and do what you do
