Suffer Elegantly

American Head Charge

You criticize my descent and analyze my intent
Your vantage point shows all the angles as obvious
You might as well take your shot whether I like it or not
You have the answers without hearing the questions
You think you're winning but you're killing yourself
You're just beginning but you're running through hell
The frictions dragging but you refuse to help
The water's rising and it's filling the wellThis is our great divide
Our only time to shine
Armed to the fucking teeth
With nothing else but time
I just keep watching how they all cower
Not like the itch that comes from having to know
I just keep thinking the nonsense sold for it
The all too willing voice so ready to yield
You think you're winning but you're killing yourself
You're just beginning but you're running through hell
The frictions dragging but you refuse to help
The water's rising and it's filling the wellThis is our great divide
Our only time to shine
Armed to the fucking teeth
With nothing else but time
There's so much more to this because there has to be
I can't just continue to let this all go
So keep on pressing down and keep on testing me
To see at what point I will give up and fail
You suffer so elegantly
You suffer so elegantly
It's all going down
Just jump in and drown
Without regret without a sound
You think you're winning but you're killing yourself
You're just beginning but you're running through hell
The frictions dragging but you refuse to help
The water's rising and it's filling the wellThis is our great divide
Our only time to shine
Armed to the fucking teeth
With nothing else but time
