

Pump Up The Volume

Pump Up The Volume

We've taken our clothes off in the rewarder
And you're leavin' your shoes on to make you look taller
And I can't say I'm not enjoying the kissing
But I've a sneaking suspicion that you're not really listening I know I shouldn't, is it so wrong
To break from your kiss to turn up a pop song?
I know I shouldn't and it's possibly wrong
To break from your kiss to turn up a pop song I'm takin it slowly, I've been readin the signs
I found my hand in a place where I can't tell if she minds
Rolling around amongst our clothes on the floor
I can't help it, have you heard this song before? I know I shouldn't, is it so wrong
To break from your kiss to turn up a pop song?
I know I shouldn't and it's possibly wrong
To break from your kiss to turn up a pop song Then something angry muttered
Between two people, red and flustered
We just kissed and that's about it
It may as well have been radio static I know I shouldn't, is it so wrong
To break from your kiss to turn up a pop song?
I know I shouldn't and it's possibly wrong
To break from your kiss to turn up a pop song

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>